Leon County residents can now receive County news at their fingertips.

In a world where 24-hour news stations and the Internet provide as-it-happens news, the County is doing its part to stay ahead of the game.

Thanks to its new media subscription service, GovDelivery, the County can provide up-to-the-minute updates on anything from emergency alerts to countywide events.

Residents can stay informed of road closures before their daily commute or be one of the first to know about County employment opportunities by signing up with the new free information service.

More importantly, when a storm hits and power is out, flooding and hazardous weather warnings can be sent directly to a mobile device.

GovDelivery serves federal, state and municipal governments around the country, including Miami-Dade and St. Lucie counties. The government-to-citizen notifications provide instant updates through email and text messaging.

Registration for this service is simple and only takes a few minutes. To register, visit the Leon County website at www.LeonCountyFL.gov and click the "Receive Updates on County News" button in the top left corner.

Visitors then enter an email address and or cell phone number and select what specific County news is most important to them. Once this process is completed, visitors can set their personal options, such as how frequently they want to receive updates, whether it be hourly, daily, weekly or the moment news is posted online.

For more information, contact the Leon County Public Information Office at (850) 606-5300, or to sign up, visit www.LeonCountyFL.gov.
